In Memoriam

In the still night she comes
And clasps her hand in mine;
We speak not; silence has
A language more divine.

Day with its noise and strife,
Night with its gloom, forgot;
We two are wandering
Where day and night are not.

AS an inspirational teacher Dr. Sledd is unsurpassed. He has exercised a profound influence upon the students of the college since the time that he was called to Wake Forest in 1888. Himself afire with enthusiasm for good literature, he has succeeded in kindling a like fire in the hearts of his pupils. Every year a little band of enthusiasts leaves his class room for the larger universities of the North, to pursue there the study of English literature.

MY CREED

*To do what'er the day demands,
In ways that make even duty sweet;
Smoothing with patient, willing hands
The paths of stumbling feet;*

*Loving the things beneath the skies;
Hating alone where hate is good,
And finding what the world denies
Deep in the lonely wood;*

*And rounding out life's little plan
As hand and head and heart best may,
Depart and leave some gift to man
Which time takes not away.*

—Benjamin F. Sledd.

THE student days of Dr. Sledd were spent at Washington and Lee, from which, in 1886, he was graduated as Master of Arts. In the autumn of the same year he entered Johns Hopkins University, where he studied under Sidney Lanier until his failing eyesight compelled him to give up his studies at the end of the session. His accurate scholarship and creative work, a realization of the Spirit of the New South, are well displayed in these last lines from "At Lexington," referring to General Lee:

*"But now a waking bird has cried
The dawn! the dawn! O Pilgrim, rise
And hasten forth and take your place
Your toiling brother-man beside,
A new day's radiance in your face,
A new day's promise in your eyes,*

*"And leave your Chieftain to his sleep,
Be yours the work of peace he wrought,
The far-off, patient ends he sought,
Out of war's ruin, wrong, and shame,
Virginia, mother, faithful keep
His martyred dust;
As time shall keep his very name
In ageless trust."*

TRANSITION

I

FOUR years are past!
Four seasons with their hours of endless gleaming
By candles bright;
Four landmarks set,
And souls launch out on seas, their spirits
 beaming,
Filled with God's light.

And now we stand
Upon the threshold of another fleeting span of years,
Fresh seas ahead;
While visionary glimpses of dry land appear,
Fresh, fertile soil—man's ALL,
But his to seek.

Like fledgling birds,
Essaying from the covert of their mother's wings
To seek some Island home
Across a pathless sea,
Unknowing of the end—yet conscious of design;
So we, O A'ma Mater dear,
For four short years upheld by thy strong arms,
Must seek our Island home,
Must make our flight. Alone!

II

But one more look,
One glance behind—even though the plow's at haed,
A furrow run—
One moment more of blissful retrospect,
Then we'll away.

Ours to love,
The life that we've lived here,
The hours, the days, the months of blessed peace
 fulness—
Of toil and play,
Like one prophetic strain
From David's lyre.

Each man a Sovereign!
Else he has sold his sovereignty—his to sell;
No fettering rules, no written laws,
Only the law of Right—as comes from God—
 Nature's Law:
Freedom to each—the keeper of his own sanctity,

Preserver of his own forces,
Freedman a man!
Each Spirit free!
Each voice allowed its own echo—no muffled strain—
Each master of its own refrain;
The Universe its bourne, the shoreless sky its mainy,
Patron of freedom,
Truth its gain.

Each free to live;
Each free to grow, as God ordained,
Nor barred from Truth;
Its shining Taper ever held aloft,
Its beams, as from some friendly lighthouse off
 rock-riven shores,
A guide to all—undimmed by Storms!
Its Leader stronger still, though battles raged
Amidst his triumph,
Unmeasured Gain!

III

Hold Thou us close
To Thine own breast again,
O A'ma Mater, dear,
And let us feel the soft, warm covert of thy wings—
As other broods,
And know once more thy love's embrace,
While all our ways are one,
Life but begun,

Fill us with hope
From thine own breast of hope;
Give us of faith,
Our visions all renew;
Soften our Spirits
By thine own Holy strain;
Leave us our lives,
Nor let us live for gain.

Each impulse
Measured by thine own impulse;
Each heart beat,
Each pulse, an echo of thine own;
Each drink,
A draught from thy soul's springs;
Our life of thee, for good and ill,
Through all eternity.

Senior Class History

WHEN we view with retrospective eyes the past four years, we feel with a very acute sense of pride the epoch-making character of the "great class" of '29. From the very beginning one was aware of the unique character and great possibilities of such a group. Thus it is with unusual interest and a peculiar sense of respect that we recall the history of our class.

In the fall of '25 some three hundred wise sophisticates from different high schools arrived at Wake Forest to form the largest freshman class that has ever entered our Alma Mater. Shortly, however, we realized that numbers did not rule, but that the Sophomore was king of the campus. We were made fully aware of this fact by being required to perform many feats such as buttoning, running errands, and doing other foolish things, the memory of which will long remain with us.

This group of intelligency organized itself into a class with A. A. Lennon, President, C. A. Upchurch, Vice President, and W. A. Holoman, Secretary. Under the efficient leadership of these men the class of '29 soon started upon its epoch making career. Possibly the greatest event of that year was the Freshman Smoker. Regardless of much criticism and unkindness the class of '29, with its strong determination, carried out its program and "pulled" the first Freshman Smoker at Wake Forest. This marks the beginning of two great aims of the class, to create a greater class spirit and to establish a more friendly spirit between Freshmen and upper classmen. Since that time these aims have been great factors in our college life.

The program of the class was continued in the fall of '27 with T. V. Hackney, President, R. M. Fales, Vice President, and E. A. MacMillan, Secretary. A committee was appointed whose duty it was at the opening of school, to welcome the Freshmen and to introduce them to the mysteries of Alma Mater. In the spring of the year this feeling of class brotherhood crystallized in the form of a Freshman-Sophomore smoker.

During the Junior year the interest of the class was centered on the more serious phases of college life. Thus, with such leaders as J. C. Ashcraft, President, L. G. Sinclair, Vice President, R. J. Keith, Secretary, the class took up many of the responsibilities that college life has to offer. Many of its members won places on the debating teams, athletic teams, were elected to the Golden Bough, and other organizations of the campus. Thus there was a consciousness of the kinetic power of the Junior class in college activities, and the original aims of the class were further realized in the broadening of our circle of friendships.

The last year of the class of '29, with R. M. Fales, President, H. W. Webb, Vice President, and F. M. Taylor, Secretary, carried to completion its work in the various activities of the campus. This year the debating team won the Southeastern championship of the Pi Kappa Delta national forensic fraternity. Many men were prominent on the athletic field, in the Band, Glee Club, and other organizations. Lasting impressions of our Senior year were created by such functions as the Senior Smoker and reception given by Dr. Gaines. And now we depart from the portals of Wake, believing that the wholesome influence of Alma Mater has better fitted us for service on the varied paths of life.

Forever continue your worthy quest for truth in all its beauty, Alma Mater! May your sons, which are many, support you with loyalty, prayer, and material attention. May your happy privilege be to train the best sons our fair land has to offer. May these go out and build to that for which you stand, and thus you will ever be as you have been, "A city set upon a hill, which cannot be hid." "Bon Voyage"—Alma Mater.

ARGUMENTS FOR ATTENDING SUMMER SCHOOL

Class Superlatives

ON Thursday night, March 21, the members of the Senior class filed out from their respective havens of work for their annual smoker. The meeting was held in the dining hall of the Williams Club.

In every group of persons there are men who seem to be peculiarly fitted to fulfill the duties of particular offices, so it is with the Senior class of '29. One of the main purposes of this smoker was to seek out these particular gentlemen and bestow honor upon them, who had in one way or another, shown to be deserving of them.

The President, Mr. R. M. Fales, asked Mr. Harold Webb the Vice President, to take charge of this part of the meeting and nominations for the various honors were immediately in order. At once there were numerous members upon their feet placing their favorite candidate in nomination for the many glorious honors. Evidences of several political machines were at once revealed and machine politics continued throughout the elections and most of the places were hotly contested.

Nominations for the "Best All-Round" were entertained. After careful scrutiny of each nominee, T. V. Hackney was conceded to be the most naturally logical man for the possession of this honor.

The next election was of very much interest to the entire group present—that of deciding who the ugliest man in the group was. This was hotly contested but a final count showed that Charlie Hough won this place. He received a hearty cheer amidst which voices were heard calling for a speech from the honored gentleman. Charlie sat in his seat in profound silence and confusion. After a moment, he arose very elegantly from his seat, removed the cigar from his mouth, and said, "I feel mighty good over this."

The minds of the men at this time seemed to be in a state of thinking as they were attempting to decide who was the "Best Student." This honor was given to P. B. Upchurch.

The election machines began working more efficiently as was shown when nominations were in order for the "Most Popular" Senior. J. V. Blackwell seemed to hold the place as the most popular student among this group. When called upon for a speech, he responded by saying that his talk would be what Mr. Upchurch had just given, which in reality was, "I haven't anything to say."

Next, eyes turned on the stately posture and conservative dress of R. B. Trotman. He was easily classified as the "Most Dignified." No one will deny the fact that Leroy Adcock is the "Best Athlete" of the class. If any one should have any doubts as to his qualifications just give one glance to Mr. Adcock as he lightly walks across the campus.

Of course everyone knows that S. Young is the "Digest Shiek." Several names were placed before the house for the laziest member of the class, but there seemed to be no political machines playing in favor of any one. The balloting being concluded,—Ross Vaughan won by a small majority. When called upon for a speech he responded by saying, "I appreciate this great honor that is bestowed on me. I'm sure I deserve it."

It seems that most every man is guilty of lying at some time in his life, but it is also true that some lie more than others and continue to do this. R. Paul Caudill was agreed upon as being the most lavish indulger in this sin.

Every one agreed that H. F. Pickering was the "Biggest Cake Eater" of the group and that H. C. Whims should be honored with the position as the "Most Business Like" member of the class.

After finding men to fill other places it seemed that some desired to learn who the dumbest man in the class was. This election was hotly contested but M. L. Griffin won.

When we began looking for the "Best Politician" all eyes at once focused on Charlie Blawes. Although there were many names presented every voter became a politician and all tricks of the trade were used to convert those who had no choice. By the shrewdness of the leading politicians Charlie was voted as the "Best Politician."

Harold Webb seemed to be the greatest "Woman Hater" while Bailey secured the highest count giving him the honor of being the "Best Looking" man of the class of '29. At this time it seemed that the various machines had exhausted their fuel because it was without opposition that Walter Wiley won the place as the "Biggest Bum." Mr. Fales then took charge of the meeting and the other phases of the program were carried out.

Senior Class Prophecy

TEN years have passed and the weight of ten weary winters has come upon me since I last was among my classmates, those of the class of '29. I am tired of wandering, and travel has become a bore as I continue to go from one place to another in this world of antiquity, gathering crumbs of learning. My task seems to be an endless one. Old ideas serve to cloud my memory and despondency creeps slowly but steadily over my soul. I am now in Greece continuing my search for knowledge. So far I have discovered nothing of how these ancients developed their peculiar art, and believe that it all was only the result of time. So why peruse over their bequeathal to culture? One makes the unit by which he is to be measured.

It is now early spring and I have just arrived at Thebes, the ancient city of Cadmus. The inn-keeper was a very talkative fellow, evidently a former barber, and our acquaintance soon grew into a somewhat lengthy conversation. He told me about one Tiresias, a renowned soothsayer of times past, who was capable of revealing the destiny of mortals. So fascinating were his stories about this blind seer that I longed to commune with him concerning the fate and doom of my former classmates. I stood upon the very place where tradition holds that the prophet exercised his art, and tried to think back, but not a single reminiscence came to me. For several days these old tales haunted me as I wandered about the ancient city. The old seer, having powers of perception even in the lower world, perceived my anxiety for information concerning my friends, and returned one night to his native city and immediately came to my room to enlighten, as well as to please and discourage me. He knew my trouble but complained that such a task was beyond his power of perception to fathom. Nevertheless, being dressed in an ancient robe, he seated himself in a chair and his mission began:

"Your erstwhile classmate, A. A. Lennon, Earl of Hanover, I find gives promise to be the American Solon. E. A. MacMillan I find critically perusing a copy of La Vie Parisienne while at his elbow sits R. D. Bulluch assorting French postcards, being a connoisseur of such delicate portrayals of femininity. R. Paul Caudill, with pebbles in his mouth, labors with the rhetoric of 'Three Little Pigs Went to Market' as J. C. Ashcraft helplessly ferrets out the legal prerogative for the Sixth Commandment. L. M. Adcock and B. F. Ricks are writing household hints for The Ladies Home Journal. R. T. Strange, assisted by J. R. Alford, is trying to determine whether 411 or Cleopatra is the greatest date in Roman History. W. B. Allsbrook deserts his flivver for aviation. C. E. Baucom, through mental incapacity, is forced to limit his ministerial activities to North America. R. K. Benfield, famous atheist, carries on a bitter campaign against the Sunday School. E. B. Bennett and D. V. Holliday are antioning off the best pieces of Scotland Neck.

At this point Tiresias flicked his cigarette ashes from his robe, continuing:

"J. B. Mattison, who graduated last year, is touring Europe on profits gleaned from the Howler of '29. L. M. Dixon, E. C. Shoe, and William Sunday, famous vaudeville troupe, are playing the Eastern circuit. They are under the tutelage of W. J. Jackson. E. B. Dozier continues his battle with Bubluis. R. M. Fales has completed his pamphlet 'How to Take Castor Oil and Like It.' G. H. McNeill is about to foreclose his mortgage on the Capitol. R. W. Martin turns over his blazer to the Smithsonian Institution. R. O. Hedrick, J. T. Bennett and R. B. Trotman strive eagerly for the Muldoon-Tunney Trophy. H. L. Hall is coaching tennis at Vassar. J. V. Blackwell has popularized the Socratic method at Wake Forest. R. S. Boone, in an ode to his mustache, writes the 'Lost Cause.' Another literary accomplishment is 'Red' Funderburk's 'Why Ladies Prefer Blondes.' H. A. Hendrix, H. B. Gentry, and L. W. Nanney are advocates as well as authorities of beauty culture. J. J. Dark and C. A. Hough, after their continental hike, are teaching physical education at Sargeant. H. N. Francis, M.D., is determining the eugenical possibility of the Twin-City. J. L. Carlton has replaced Judge Landis. W. W.

Cohoon teams up with Willie Person in the presidential race of 1939. H. L. Cherry is manufacturing face powder in DuPont laboratories. R. L. Vaughan, I regret to say, is missing; he was stolen from his home by a group of infatuated young ladies—Zazy Pitts is a suspect! S. G. Wallace, pedagogue ordinary, is principal of Mesopotamia High School. W. F. Woodall is janitor. C. T. Lawrence completes his novel, "Why We do not Behave like Human Beings." W. M. Bredell and J. B. Troidon are selling patent medicines. R. J. Keith is professor of Natural Science at Louisville Seminary. A. D. Lassiter is chasing flies in Child's Cafe. T. V. Hackney has learned that all Psychology is not practical, while M. L. Griffin finds American to be a more popular language than English.—"and of W. W. Omohundro, what of him," I asked? He looked at me with a baleful eye, "I came here," said he, "not to toil with trifles." At this he stalked from me and murmured that at Delphi I could learn the rest.

After a days journey I reached Delphi and devoutly implored the priestess, Pythia, to reveal to me Apollo's Oracle as to the whereabouts of the remainder of my classmates. She seated herself upon the tripod, and after exhaling the vapor began to speak:

"W. D. Holloman and M. R. Vickers are practicing law in Durham. They are keeping up the name of their city. L. G. Sinclair is professor of Biology at Meredith. F. M. Taylor is farming near by. W. H. Gibson is hurling for the Senators and B. E. Scarborough, playing on the same team, is on the verge of collapse due to strenuous outfield labor. W. J. Johnson, due to his poetic versatility, has been forced to establish a harem. D. L. Liles is an army lieutenant. D. B. Roberts is chaplain of the same regiment. F. A. Burroughs and M. C. Yates, noted misogynists, are contemplating attending summer school. G. W. Burch and S. N. Parker, religious sophists, have become eminent in their work in Greeland. W. S. Privott, with C. M. Thomas, is trying to enact a reincarnation of Bryan's party leadership. J. M. Butler and D. B. Courtney have successfully obliterated the prestige of the world famous dancer, Arthur Murray. H. H. Thompson and I. L. Shaver are analyzing the authenticity of 'Ten Nights in a Bar Room.' J. D. Larkins threatens the position of Eleanor Glyn in literary circles. His chief adviser is J. M. Hough. T. J. Edwards is doing research work in Canada. V. E. White and R. G. Chamblee are utilizing their knowledge of Horticulture learned in the summer session of '28. W. C. Hopkins and C. C. Huskins are co-principals in the famous School of Fish. R. H. Holliday and H. F. Pickering are conducting a campaign for bigger and better atoms. H. M. Klutz has recently patented an everready water pistol, which he expects to sell as a weapon of defense. J. D. White is manufacturing safety-transit kiddie carts. The firm of Robinson & Robinson suffered financial reverses when their balloon stock came down. W. M. Smith is a screaming success in Van Arnam's Minstrels. H. L. Gatlin and R. C. Hargette are selling cars on the installment plan, that move only on the first of the month. F. M. Grady and I. E. Harris are equipping Ziegfeld's Theatre with fire extinguishers. H. T. Myers and G. L. Potts prosper in their vending of 'Kumbback Hair Tonic.' G. B. Snuggs and H. W. Webb are brilliant elocutionists. G. B. Murphey and W. R. Wiley are operating a Greek restaurant in Louisburg."

At this I was on my way marveling at such wonderful things achieved by my classmates.

Junior Class Poem

The bell rings out the knell of Junior year;
Figures I thought long dead again I see;
The Freshman ghost steps out from lowly bier
To talk with spirit Sophomore and me.

Now grows the vision fair upon my sight;
And first year's tears and first year's smiles return;
And Sophomore vicissitudes in flight,
Like ashes blown from some long closed urn.

But Freshman ghost and spirit Sophomore
Each say: "Linger not here with me too long
Among old scenes you fondly now adore;
Advance! and strive among the morrow's throng."

Junior Class History

WHEN we review the History of the class of '30 we are subject to a mixed feeling of pride and sorrow. We are proud because this class has always been loyal to Wake Forest; we are proud because many of the members of this class have attained honor in the many fields of activities. And yet we are sorry since the memory of the fact that we are now in our third year of college life brings to us the realization that we have only one more year to spend at this institution which we have learned to love even as our own homes.

The day that we arrived at Wake Forest was a great day for most of the members of the class of '30. We must have afforded an unusually great amount of pleasure for those who observed us. (We were able to understand the joy of such an occasion only after the arrival of the class of '31.)

After our first few days at Wake Forest we became accustomed to the new conditions and time slipped by rather rapidly. Every now and then, however, incidents happened which will always remain vivid in our memories. To forget the significance of the word "button" would be impossible. Nor shall we forget the big snow, that came during our first year, or the Freshman-Sophomore Smoker.

If, during our first year in college, we did not learn very much about Chemistry, Mathematics, English, etc., we at least learned how to give Freshmen a hearty welcome. When we arrived at Wake Forest as Sophomores we had ample opportunity to make use of this knowledge.

Realizing that college work is hard we thought it best to "toughen up" our new friends so that they could stand the oncoming hardships. So we pulled the usual shirt tail parades, and at intervals some Sophomore applied the paddle to the posterior parts of Freshman anatomy. We also gave the boys a chance to make known their abilities as orators and as singers. But there was no serious hazing, and we are proud to say that the relationship between the class of '30 and the class of '31 has been such that there has been established a feeling of friendship between these classes which is bound to last through the years to come.

At the beginning of our Junior year at Wake Forest many of our friends of previous years were not to be seen. Somehow this caused us to think more seriously of life. We began to realize that we have the stage for only a short time, that what we do must be done quickly, for others will soon take our places. One incident which impressed this on our minds was the death of Mr. C. M. Rollins. He was an outstanding member of our class, and all who knew him join us in our grief because of his untimely death.

Since our first day at Wake Forest fate, in that mysterious way known to fate alone, has been slowly but surely creating in our hearts a love for our fellow students and for every one connected with this institution that even old age cannot cause us to forget. It is our sincere wish that Wake Forest students may always maintain those standards set by early Wake Forest men, and that Wake Forest College may always be a center where men are searching for truth.

Full many a lawyer, the best in the land;
And many a surgeon with steadiest hand;
Yea, many good pastors, now keeping the fold,
Attended Wake Forest of yore we are told.

They came and they learned to love this old place;
They came seeking power to win in life's race,
Far into the world they have carried the name
Of dear old Wake Forest, thus spreading her fame.

So, Class of Nineteen Thirty-one, let us strive
To keep this tradition forever alive.
Let us show by our words and our actions and deeds
That the sons of Wake Forest are men the world needs.

Sophomore Class History

TWO short years we've spent here. Each so filled with events as to call for an entire volume of history, were they all to be recorded. Each year has come and gone as the others, looked forward to, bringing something new to us, and then looked back upon. It is with pleasure that we look back upon a history so short and yet one so notable.

The history of the class of '31 must be divided into two distinct history making periods; Pre-historic and Historic. The Pre-historic Nation rose in the fall of '27. Green we were, 220 of us, as green as the grass of Carolina fields in Spring, back there in the fall of '27. How big we had felt when we left home; a college man, yes a college man. But after all, why did we have to go to college anyway? We were graduates; yes, high school graduates. Surely there was nothing else to learn. But what an entirely different attitude we took when we arrived here. We were dazed, yes, completely dazed, gazing upward in awe, like sheep, before our shearers. Finally the mist cleared away. We finally realized that we knew absolutely nothing, but we were here to learn, to learn not only the Philosophy of life but also many quaint and noble customs and traditions of the institution we had chosen to prepare us for whatever walk of life we had chosen. Yes, we heartily bought chapel song books, both tickets, and paid an unusually large portion of our summers savings in radiator fees. But we had to learn and remember that experience was the best teacher. Our Freshman year was truly full of life, of work and of joy. It passed quickly, in fact, so quickly that before we could realize it the Pre-historic curtain dropped before our eyes.

But no sooner had the Pre-historic curtain dropped than the Historic curtain was flung wide open. Sophomores, yes, Sophomores at last. Surely now, we were "King of the Campus." But being Sophomores is largely like the proverbial "Morning After"—there isn't as much fun in the "being" as there is in the arriving. We were often reminded that a Sophomore and a Sophist were two very similar types of animals, "One who possesses only a smattering of knowledge but one who thinks he knows everything and is therefore a very dangerous creature." As we conclude this wonderful year we fully realize that we have only had a taste of the many opportunities our Alma Mater offers us and may each and every man of the class of '31 ever bear this in mind.

An attempt to chronicle all the activities of the Sophomore class would be utterly impossible, and consequently we must content ourselves with a mere mention of a few of our accomplishments thus far. We have produced outstanding men in all scholastic fields as well as on the field of athletics. Many teams that represented Wake Forest this year were known as the "Flying Sophomores." May we maintain this record throughout our college career, thereby doing our bit to hold up the sacred traditions of the school we represent.

These two years at Wake Forest have been fruitful ever. We now look across the horizon for greater things and may we ever keep fresh in our memory these immortal words,

"A little learning is a dangerous thing;
Drink deep or taste not the Pierian Spring."

Freshman Class Poem

And to Dear Old Wake Forest we've come at last!
The happy thought of our vanished years,
With all its tender care and pride,
Its victory cheers.

Bright with the fair remembrances of youth,
And entwined with hopes of future days;
Our Alma Mater sounds far and wide,
Filled with praise

Filled with cheerful voices of youth,
Preparations for life's destiny are being made:
Oh, College days of sorrow and joy,
Of sun, of shade.

But when our college days are ended,
And we shall leave never to come back,
Among our dearest treasures shall be the banner
Of Old Gold and Black.

Freshman Class History

ON September 10 our class was admitted to the College. For the first three days we listened to lectures by different members of the faculty, thus being introduced to some of our professors. After listening to these lectures and to the advice of a committee of students appointed to welcome us, we caught the spirit of the school. We learned what was expected of Freshmen.

We were called out on September 19 to become acquainted with King Sophomore. One method of introduction was the annual shirt tail parade. We marched around town singing "How Green I Am," and afterwards each member of our class had to stand up and tell where he was from. Then we were pleasantly surprised by being treated to a good moving picture show.

This did not end our initiation by any means, for we were forced to run errands for upper classmen and many other things the reasons for which we did not understand in the beginning. But we realize now that this helped us to catch the great spirit that prevails at Wake Forest.

Reviewing the activities of the class, our football team seems to be the most noticeable. The team went the entire season, losing but one game. Our basketball team was one of the best teams seen here in years, and the baseball team gives promise of being a great success.

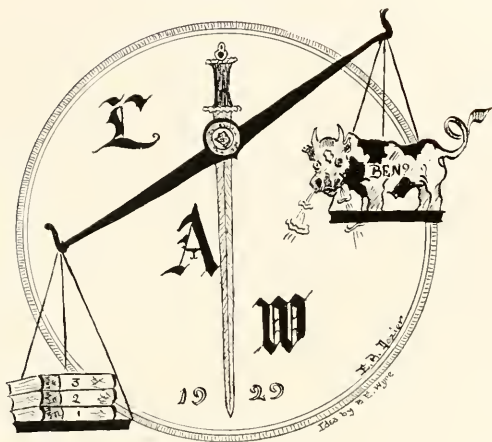

Athletics did not claim our entire attention, however by any means, for we had men in every department of college activities. On the debating team, Glee Club and student publications our class was found working.

During the year we have had little to disturb our work except an epidemic of influenza, which claimed several members of our class. None of these suffered severely because all were given the proper attention.

Our class elected the following men as officers: R. C. Gwaltney, President, H. F. Fuller, Vice President, H. H. Newsome, Secretary. These men have shown themselves fully capable of leading the class, for they have the interest of the class at heart.

Medical Class History

ON the eve of the departure of the Medical Class of '29 it is fitting to give a history of the years of study and accomplishments which were ours since the beginning of our work toward the goal of the Medical Profession. A history is an account of facts dealing with past events, but due to the lack of space only a brief review can be given. The purpose of this review is to mention a few words which we may have as a reminder of the vivid years in our beloved college home as we leave for other schools to complete our course.

When we entered school in the fall of 1927, there were twenty-six men to enroll in the first year class. All, with the exception of one member, were North Carolinians and had pursued pre-medical work at Wake Forest. For this reason nearly all had been associated in some work at one time or other in the past and close friendships had been formed already. Our new member, who had emigrated from Pennsylvania and had wandered into our fold, was cordially welcomed and on account of his congeniality made himself a very acceptable friend and associate. Although our class was small, it had an exceptional feature in that it was composed of a larger per cent of men who had received degrees and had taken an active part in scholastic activities than ever before. Twelve had received degrees and the remainder were men of three years standing before entering the medical school.

Our class was organized on the morning of September 14, 1927 and our work began in earnest. On the following morning with our Bibles (Gray's Anatomy) under our arms and a bone in our hands we, amidst great fear and trembling, began our pilgrimage up the stairway to the third floor of the Medical Building to meet the first class in Osteology. It was an entirely new experience and the dawn of a new life for us, but we were determined to make the best of it and be called successful followers of many classes which preceded ours over the same pathways that were as unfamiliar to them at one time as to us that morning. That day of all others is one we shall remember as it is not only the day we started out in preparation for our chosen profession but we then assumed new responsibilities and a multitude of work.

After spending five weeks on Osteology, we donned our gowns and began the term in the dissecting room. It was here that we spent most of our time and that which was left was occupied by classes in Physiology, Histology, Physiological Chemistry, Embryology, and Neurology. Our work progressed and the task in the dissecting room was being gradually diminished under the careful tutelage and generous cooperation of our instructor Dr. William A. Johnson until his untimely death. We were shocked to hear of the unfortunate accident which deprived us of the fellowship of one we admired and respected so highly. He was to us not a teacher alone, but a friend to each and every one and it was with heavy hearts and a feeling of loss and sorrow that we again assumed our duties alone in this department. However, the place left vacant by the death of Dr. Johnson was filled in few weeks by the return of Dr. H. M. Vann a former friend and Professor of Anatomy at Wake Forest a few years before. Under his leadership, we made the best of the loss of time in the interval and completed the course in gross anatomy.

When our class returned from the summer vacation to resume work of the second year two members did not return, but the class was augmented by the return of two former students who had completed the first year work. These men have proved to be valuable additions to the class and we were glad to have them join us. Our second year has been on the whole much more interesting, but we cannot say that it has been any easier than the first.

As we look back upon our two years at Wake Forest, we have found our work pleasant and throughout the time there has been a friendly spirit of cooperation among the members of the class. We are hoping that our labors, our aims and aspirations will materialize in greater achievements, and it is with this idea that we have pushed on each day. Too, we realize our success and achievements were due to the capable leadership of our esteemed faculty. We cannot praise too highly and attribute too much credit to those who have given unreservedly their time, untiring efforts, and cooperation in every respect.

Now as parting goes, we turn a new page in our lives as we continue study in different sections where the institutions of our choice are located. As we go, we carry fond memories of our stay at Wake Forest, and we cherish and respect the ideals of our Alma Mater.

IN recognition of Professor Sledd's distinguished services as teacher he was, in 1914, appointed "Kahn Travelling Fellow." He visited Italy, Greece, Switzerland, England, and France, and lived for a time, in the scenes of these countries, with the spirits of Browning, Tennyson, Milton, Arnold, Wordsworth, and other poets whom he knows and loves so well. At the opening of the late war Dr. Sledd had been in England only a short time. There he witnessed the marshaling of the English troops, as they marched out to embark for France. Thus were born these lines from "A Virginian in Surrey:"

*"They come, they come!
No blare of bugle, beat of drum,
No flaunting flag, no battle-cry;
Only the measured tread of many feet
Startling the wayside silence deep and sweet."*

*"Oh, England's youth, march surely on!
Not yours alone the foe:
The foe of all who love the right,
Of all who hate unmanly might,
With you the battle go
Godspeeds on all the winds that blow,
From mine own land beyond the main."*

*"Not yours alone the foe:
Comes over England's hour of woe,
Her children hear beyond the main:
The Mother will not call in vain."*

—Benjamin F. Sledd.

COMING of a family already famous in Colonial days, Benjamin Sledd's father owned a magnificent estate of 14,000 acres in Bedford County, Virginia. Here, with wooded mountains all around and "Old Otter's lonely peak" rising hard by, amid negro boys and girls and story tellers, Benjamin Sledd spent his early years. The influence of the southern plantation is seen in his love and respect for the traditions of the Old South, which he has brought with his teachings of English to Wake Forest. Among the best of his boyhood teachers was the old slave, Isaac, whom Dr. Sledd has immortalized in one of his most characteristic poems:

ISAAC

*"Where the pine-woods in the twilight murmur sadly of the past,
Singing goes he, with the fagots o'er his bended shoulder cast,—
Poor old Isaac, of a vanished time and order, best and last.*

"And his song is of the master, many a year now in his grave, Loved as a brother loveth brother,—worthy master, worthy slave."

*"Wood fur marster; kin'lin' wood!"—oh, the memory of the days
Blessed with more than ease and plenty, freer hearts and gentler ways."*

*"And the treasures without number fashioned by the dear old hand—
Childhood's inmost, sweetest longings, who so well could understand?
Christ, who so loved little children, bless him in that better land!"*

*"In the old forsaken garden, sleeps the master, sleeps the slave;
And the pines tonight are sighing o'er each unremembered grave."*

—Benjamin F. Sledd.

O, Alma Mater

O, Alma Mater! 'tis thy name
 That lights our path to glory;
 We'll ever spread thy matchless fame
 In word and song and story.
 So round her name through all the land,
 Let triumphs ring on every hand,
 Let praises all our hearts command,
 Hail, hail to thee, Wake Forest!

And what true hearts we'll greet the hour
 That calls us to our duty;
 We'll trust our Alma Mater's power
 To round our lives with beauty.
 And all the while our hearts are free,
 Our souls are full of jollity;
 And singing in our joy and glee,
 Hail, hail to thee, Wake Forest!

Her sturdy sons from far and near
 Look back to Alma Mater;
 With many a prayer, but ne'er a fear,
 They bless their Alma Mater:
 And as they rise from height to height
 And stand as victors in the fight,
 They sing the mother of their light:
 Hail, hail to thee, Wake Forest!

Captain

"TEX" QUILLEN, playing his first game on the varsity, has been one of the stars in practically every game of the season. We are looking for him to show real football "class" during the next two seasons.

GRAHAM DENTON, stocky guard from Raleigh, now playing his second year, always holds down his side of the line in tip top fashion. He is one of the most scholarly men on the team. Gentlemanly qualities and characteristics have caused him to command the respect of all who know him.

"TOBY" HICKS, of Mount Holly, is another of our Sophomore letter men. This genial gentleman is a good, consistent player and we predict big things for him before his football career at Wake Forest is over.

"K" COVINGTON, former all-southern high school star, who hails from Rockingham, is the best punter Wake Forest has had in many a day. He also is a Sophomore, and we wouldn't be surprised to see him make an all-state berth before he finishes.

JESSE PHIFER, also of Rockingham, is a man who has won the admiration and respect of the fellows. Besides being varsity center for three years he has made a most enviable record in the class room. He will make his mark in the world, whether as a professor or as a coach.

TOM CORNWALL, young giant, came to us from Wileague, and in his first year here has landed a sure place on the team. His height alone is enough to terrify the strongest heart, but when coupled with his playing ability, there is a combination that must be reckoned with.

"JIT" BENTON is the heftiest backfield man in North Carolina. This Sophomore is a consistent ground gainer, and succeeded in scoring the first touchdown of the season against P. C.

"TANKER" DORSETT hails from Spencer. From the time of his first appearance in a Wake Forest uniform he has been outstanding. We well recall the fall of '27 when he blocked Carolina's try for an extra point, which would have tied the score had it been good.

FRED BURROUGHS, a Greensboro product, has gained during the past four years much respect as a student, gentleman, and athlete. We extend to Fred our loyalty and support and think of him as a worthy son of Wake Forest.

ARTHUR HORD has made no few friends since his arrival two years ago. He plays like a man, a sport, a gentleman, and though a Sophomore, is one of Wake Forest's best players.

"JACK" PARKER, the boy with the black beard, has shown himself to be a player of real skill. Jack is known for his ability, his "pep," and his spirit. Around this man Wake Forest will build a winning team.

GORDON GRANT, a native of North Carolina, came to us from the sunny clime of Florida. Recognition has been his, as he has held down his berth at guard in veteran fashion.

WAKE FOREST DEACONS

"USELESS" MILLS, a native of Wake County, comes from Apex. He is in his third year with the Deacon players, and is one of the most promising backfield men for the 1929 "Deacon" squad.

TAYLOR or "RED" plays a flashy flank for the Deacons. He seems to be capable of holding his position at right end, and is always on the job when the ball is in play.

SAM LEVINE came breezing down from the "Little City" in 1927. He is ready to serve at all times, and his looks and strength throw many a giddy feeling in opponent linemen.

HONIGMAN, from Mount Holly, had been at Wake Forest two years when he decided to don the uniform. His services for the past season have proved the truth of the proverb, "Better late than never."

"JOHNNY" COX is well known throughout this and other states for his flashy running and side stepping. His election as captain for the coming season proves his ability as a player.

Captain WEIR hails from the "Land of the Sky." His ready and able qualities cause us to predict the memory of his services in years to come.

GREGSON, the brilliant Sophomore from Sanford, has won a berth at tackle on Coach Cofall's Deacon team. We prophesy for Gregson a successful future before his college career is ended.

ALL-STATE HOWERS FIVE-ONE

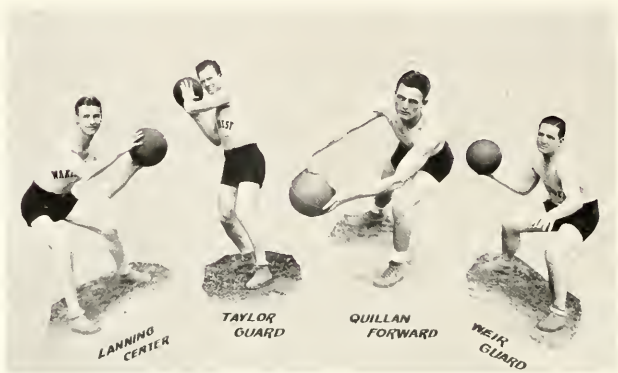

"JABO" SCARBOROUGH, first representing the college in his Freshman year, saw service again in his Junior year. Since then he has been one of the first string men for both Coach Baldwin and Coach Miller. Scarborough's playing is far beyond reproach.

GEORGE PASCHAL has been playing for Wake Forest for four consecutive years; each year his clean sportsmanship has been evident along with his skill as a basketeer. His work in the Medical school has barred him from most trips for the past two years.

CAPTAIN DOWTIN has been one of Wake Forest's star forwards for the past three years. His stellar work as Freshman forward was only indicative of his ability on the varsity team. His classic playing has been recognized by a berth on the All State team for the past three years, and nomination for the All Southern quint.

"TOM" LANNING, tall center of the Deacon five, has seen much service during this season. His height as well as his "winged feet" enable him to get the tip off in the majority of cases.

"RED" TAYLOR has been one of the Deacons' mainstays on the defense. Although he did not pile up any high scores, on several occasions he has proved to be a deadlock to the progress of opponents.

QUILLIN, known as "Tex," is another one of Wake Forest's crew who does not look out of place on the court.

HAL WEIR comes from Asheville. He is ending his career at Wake Forest with this year. Weir has shown his ability as an all-around athlete. We look for him to make a successful coach in the next few years.

Review of the Basketball Season

WAKE Forest's team of this year was not quite up to her usual standard. However she was not entirely without her victories.

The season was opened with a tilt with Furman, in the local gym, in which the visitors lost 34-26. Wake Forest ran the score up in the first few minutes of play, after which the playing was rather close, Furman never catching up.

Lenoir-Rhyne was next to fall to the offense of the Deacons. The tune of this fray was 33-25. The Deacons led at the half, 18-8, but the visitors rallied toward the last and almost tied the score. Downtin starred with 21 points.

The season's first defeat came a few days later when Wake Forest bowed to N. C. State, Southern Conference Champions, in a hard fought game which ended 27-20.

Next came Duke at Durham. At the end of the half the Deacons led, 17-16, but in the second half Duke rallied and came out on the long end of a 43-34 score.

Two days later Carolina was met in Raleigh. In a one-sided game the Heels handed the Deacons a 42-19 defeat.

Victory was again tasted in the next game, when Al Downtin came from the bed-side of his sick mother, and led the team in a 34-26 victory over the Elon Christians.

When the team from Guilford came down Wake Forest fans saw one of the best games of the season. The result was in doubt to the very last, but Wake Forest won 45-40.

On the Virginia trip the team broke even, winning from Hampden-Sidney, 32-20, and losing to Richmond, 47-32.

Carolina again defeated Wake Forest in their second meeting of the season, 34-11, in a game featured for the Deacons by the absence of Captain Downtin.

Again Wake Forest bowed in defeat in her second meeting with Duke. The score was 35-21. Next came the second game with State, in which Wake Forest lost, 44-12. Then the Deacons lost to Guilford, 30-21, and to Davidson, 38-25. Al Downtin, one of the main cogs of the Deacon quint, was missing from these games.

As a whole the season, though not up to the standard, could have been much worse. The Deacons scored a total of 341 points to 430 for their opponents. Wake Forest won 5 out of 13 games.

Captain

G. D. TAYLOR

TOM LANNING is slated to bear the brunt of the hurling for Wake Forest this season. This is his third year at Wake Forest and we are safe in predicting for him a brilliant career on the mounds of North Carolina.

JACK PHELPS, member of the All-State Football Team of '27, is also a baseball player of note. His great size and strength have formed a good backstop. He was a regular on the championship Freshman team of '25 and a member of the Varsity championship team of '26.

RALPH JAMES entered here in '24. His record as an athlete has been phenomenal. Participating in the three major sports during his four years in college, he is widely known for his clean sportsmanship. The All-State team would have been incomplete without him in '26, '27 and '28.

KUYKENDALL, now teaching at Mars Hill, was one of the best catchers, in the State during the past few years. Base runners in this State will verify the fact that his peg cannot be taken lightly. His mates saw fit to elect him captain of this year's team, but he was unable to reënter Wake Forest.

O. K. JOYNER, captain of the '28 Deacon nine, is now with the Henderson team. Entering Wake Forest in '24, he was a member of the All-State Freshman Team and a member of the All-State Varsity Team in '26, '27 and '28.

PIT ALLEN, now a Junior, was a member of the '27 Freshman team, and was used last year on the Varsity. Pit is one of these head up, hard fighting, clean athletes, and an excellent student as well.

AL DOWNTIN, well known for his achievements on the basketball court, is now one of the best second sackers in the State. His election to the All-State team last year was unanimous. Upon the failure of Kuykendall to return to school, he was elected to captain the '29 team.

"PETE" JOYNER is just as good as he is small. He covers the hot corner in a masterly fashion and his pegs to first are fast and sure. In losing "Pete" Wake Forest has lost a great little athlete and sport.

JOE CLAYTON, recognized as a born shortstop, has manifested his inherent ability on the diamonds of this State. His work for the past three years merited for him each year a position on the All-State nine.

WILLIE MOSS, of Forest City, was star on Bob Hayes's star Freshman football and baseball teams of '25 and '26. His work at first base last year was consistent and he usually came through with a hit in each game.

SCARBOROUGH is continuing in his usual consistent manner at outfield. Last year he made a regular berth at centerfield, and it is likely that he will hold his own at this position this season.

"ABIE" LASSITER, a star member of the '26 Freshman team, is one of Wake Forest's best outfielders. He is endowed with the old baseball pep, and is well able to hold his own at the bat.

FOUST, Baby Deacon Captain in '27, and Varsity player last year, is looked to as likely material for this season's team. Another hard worker on the field and in the class room is Foust.

"OT" PERSON was a member of the '28 Deacon hurling staff. Though Ot did not see as much service as did some of the hurlers, we cannot easily forget the trimming he administered to Carolina at Pinehurst in '27. In this game he landed a home run.

"TANKER" DORSETT, one of Coach Lingle's Freshmen of '27 and '28, hails from Spencer. He handles himself in the field like an old timer, and lays against that apple just like he means business.

BENJAMIN SLEDD'S early years were spent in the constant championship of his mother, a woman of strong personality. Though not an invalid, she was never known to enter a neighbor's house, and for twenty years she was never known to go beyond the gate of her own lawn. To the devoted care of this strong, yet lovable woman Dr. Sledd owes, perhaps, the deepest and most abiding influence of his life. He has paid her a beautiful tribute in one of his early poems.

MY MOTHER

*My Mother, Arabella! Oh, that name
A meaning hath,—so beautiful, so rare.
For thou hast made thy life an altar fair
Wherean hast burned a never-dying flame
Of loving sacrifice, for all who claim
Thy ministry; and thou hast offered there
Whatever of life's good has been thy share.
Nor sought the martyr's but the mother's fame.*

*Time's silent, tender blessings are thy part;
Yet from my lips, which need the touch divine
To sing aright, the meed of song be thine:
To this fair altar every thought I bring
In loves and duty's name, an offering,
And say, the source of all that's best thou art.*

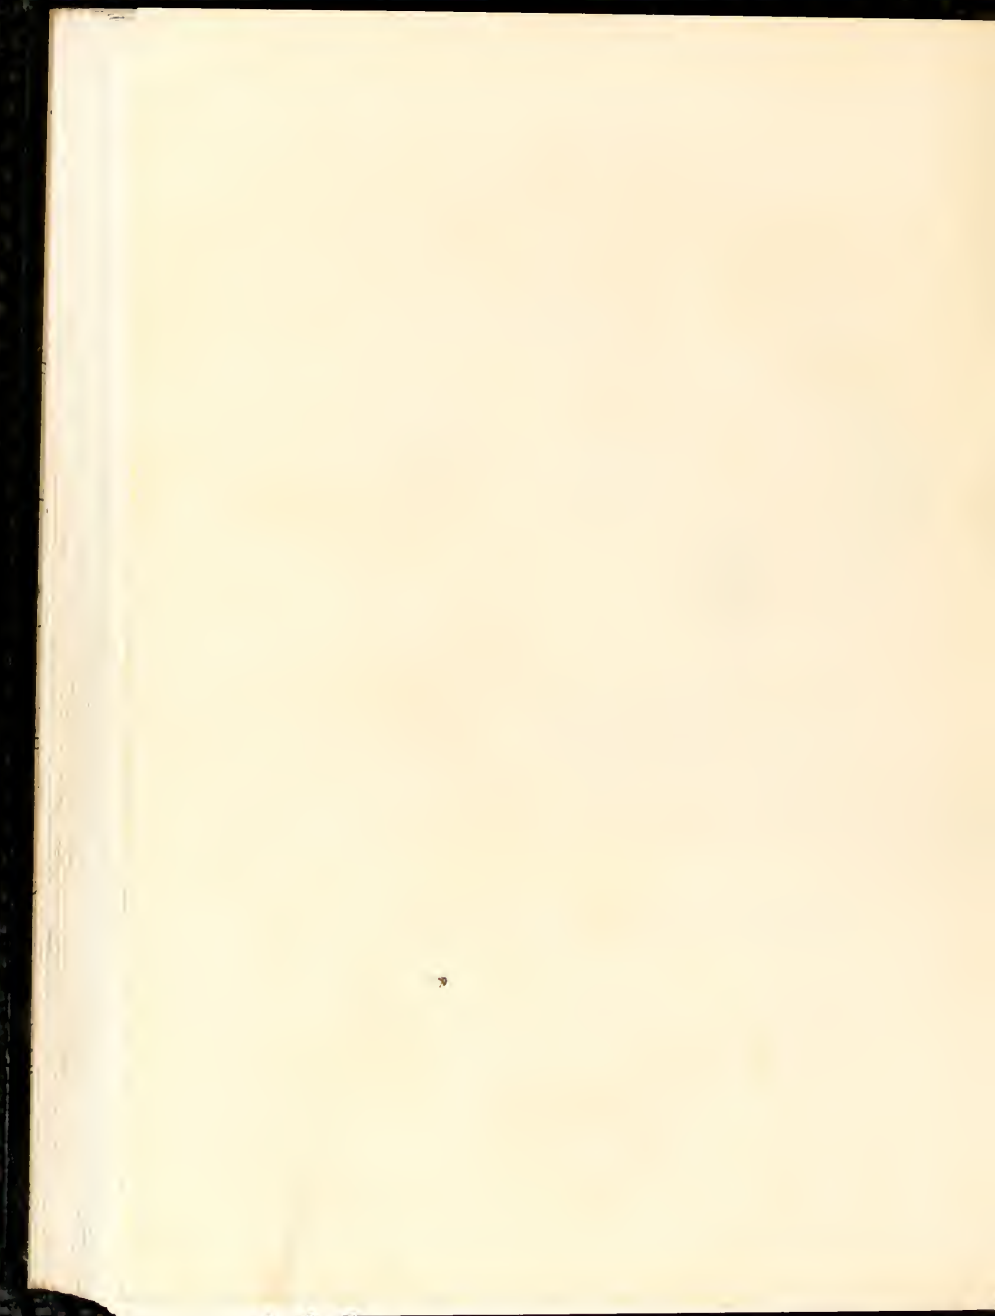

—Benjamin F. Sledd.

An old negro man expressed a desire to join a fashionable city church and the minister thinking he would not be happy among the white folks, but not wanting to hurt his feelings, told him to go home and pray over it. In a few days the old negro came back.

"What do you think of it by this time?" asked the preacher.

"Well, sah," replied the old negro, "Ah prayed an' prayed an' prayed an' de good Layd He says to me, 'Rastus, Ah wouldn't bodder mah haid, about dat no mo. Ah've been trying to git into dat church myself for the last 20 years and Ah ain't succeeded."

ELECTRIC SERVICE

Means Progress

The electric service of any community is an essential part of the industrial and social life of that community. If your Electric Utility functions successfully and efficiently the results will mean for greater industrial progress and better living conditions.

Every day in every way changes are being made which require added electric service. Homes and factories are built, new offices and stores are opened. These changes necessitate an ever increasing supply of electric power of dependable character. The Carolina Power & Light Company sees that such requirements are provided for the communities in which they serve.

The executives, engineers and technical experts of the company are planning for the needs of coming years and coming generations because of their faith in the community served. True success is built upon service to others.

From Freshman's science papers:
The earth makes a resolution every 24 hours.

The difference between air and water is that air can be made wetter and water cannot.

We are now the masters of steam and eccentricity.

Things that are equal to each other are equal to anything else.

Gravity is chiefly noticeable in the autumn, when the apples are falling from the trees.

The axis of the earth is an imaginary line on which the earth takes its daily routine.

A parallel straight line is one which if produced to meet itself does not meet.

Electricity and lightning are of the same nature, the only difference being that lightning is often several miles long while electricity is only a few inches.—Boston Transcript.

TIT FOR TAT

Hubby found some holes in his stockings. "You haven't mended these?" he said to his wife.

"Did you buy that coat you promised me?" she asked.

"No-no."

"Well, if you don't give a wrap, I don't give a darn."—Montreal Star.

CAN YOU IMAGINE IT?

This is the way to write a thoroughly
angry business letter:

"Sir: My typist, being a lady, cannot take down what I think of you. I, being a gentleman, cannot write it. You, being neither, can guess it all."—

BUILDERS DREAMS

VISIONS created by the imagination precede the achievement of any really great accomplishment. The ability to weave the threads of imagination into the finished fabric is equally important.

It has been the privilege of the EDWARDS & BROUGHTON COMPANY to interpret the ideas of the Staff and create in material form their vision.

From the art work and engravings to the finished book, this volume is the result of organized cooperation with the Staff.

Such able cooperation is one of the "visions" which precede the building of a successful business, and is a part of the working policy of the EDWARDS & BROUGHTON COMPANY.

To those Staffs desiring complete cooperation from art work and engravings to the finished book, we offer unequalled service. Complete service means undivided responsibility as to the result—one organization to correspond and talk with—one trained director to merge the many ingredients into the finished product.

You, too, may be proud of your annual.
